Lennox Andrews Digs In: How the NNP Lost Ground in St. Andrew South West

The NNP won St. Andrew South West in 2013 and 2018 and lost it narrowly in 2022. In 2026 the NDC's majority more than doubled, to 1,094; the NNP carried one polling division out of 20, and turnout fell nine points.

ST. ANDREW SOUTH WEST, GRENADA— St. Andrew South West has changed hands with the national tide. The NDC's Sylvester Quarless won it in 2008; the NNP's Yolande Bain-Horsford took it in 2013 and held it in 2018; and in 2022 the NDC's Lennox Andrews won it back, by 2,129 votes to 1,704.

On 5th November Mr. Andrews was re-elected by 2,428 votes to 1,334 for the NNP's Amanda Japal, in a straight two-way contest. A majority of 425 became one of 1,094, and a seat the NNP held for nine years now looks like settled NDC ground.

A NEW CARETAKER, 19 MONTHS OUT

The NNP named Ms. Japal as its caretaker for St. Andrew South West in April 2025, one of four caretakers presented that month for seats the party had lost in 2022. She had about 19 months before polling day in which to become known across a constituency of almost 6,000 voters, running from the edge of Grenville through Munich, Grand Bras, St. James and Harford Village to Birchgrove and Mount Carmel.

Against her stood a sitting member with four years in the seat. The NNP's share of the two-party vote fell from 44.5 per cent to 35.5 per cent, a drop of 9.0 points, slightly less than the national swing of 10.3.

THE NNP LOST VOTERS; THE NDC KEPT ITS OWN

The NNP's vote fell by 370, from 1,704 to 1,334, while the NDC's rose by 299. Measured against the whole electorate, Mr. Andrews won the votes of 40.0 per cent of all registered voters in 2022 and 40.7 per cent in 2026, almost unchanged, whereas the NNP's share fell from 32.0 per cent to 22.4 per cent.

That pattern recurs throughout this series: sitting NDC members held their share of the electorate steady while the NNP's support drained away. The NDC did not need to win over NNP voters. It needed them to stay home, and many did.

FEWER VOTERS THAN IN 2022

St. Andrew South West's register grew by 635 names, yet 80 fewer ballots were cast. Turnout fell from 72.4 per cent to 63.3 per cent, a drop of 9.0 points and the third-largest in the country, and the number of registered voters who did not vote rose from 1,472 to 2,187.

With no third party on the ballot, every one of those missing votes represented a choice not to vote at all. In a seat the NNP held as recently as 2018, a fall in turnout of this magnitude points to a party that failed to reach its own supporters.

ONE DIVISION LEFT

The NNP carried 1 of the 20 polling divisions, the Walker Church of God, by 73 votes to 64. It came closest elsewhere at the Union Community Centre, with 45.4 per cent of the two-party vote, and at the Grenville Pre-Primary School, with 41.3 per cent across two divisions, including the largest division in the seat.

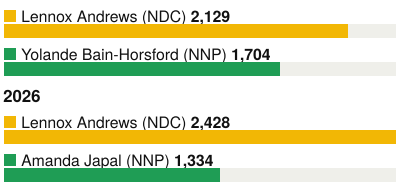

Its weakest results came at Mount Carmel, with 25.6 per cent; Grand Bras, with 25.8 per cent across two divisions; and Harford Village, with 28.7 per cent. At St. James the NDC won by 203 votes to 102, and at the two Forde divisions by 238 to 119.

FIVE HUNDRED AND FORTY-EIGHT VOTERS

To win the seat back, the NNP needs 548 voters to switch sides, or 1,095 more of its own supporters to turn out, half of those who stayed home. That is a substantial gap, but St. Andrew South West has swung by as much before, in both directions.

Recovering the NNP's 2022 vote of 1,704 alone would cut the deficit by about a third. Recovering the 2018 position would require a candidate who is known and present for years, not months.

WHAT CAN BE DONE: A FOUR-YEAR PLAN FOR THE SOUTH-WEST

St. Andrew South West needs continuity before anything else.

Year one, 2027: confirm the candidate early, whether Ms. Japal or another, and commit to that person for two elections. Open a permanent office near Grenville, where the two largest polling divisions lie, and keep it open between elections.

Year two, 2028: build outwards from Walker, Union and the Grenville Pre-Primary divisions, where the NNP performed best. Hold regular meetings with farmers, transport operators and young families in Grand Bras, Harford Village and Mount Carmel, where it performed worst. Register new voters every month, since 635 joined the roll.

Year three, 2029: recruit a captain for each of the 20 divisions, track contacts against the 2022 NNP vote in each division, and report progress publicly to party members.

Year four, 2030: run the campaign as a turnout operation. The first target is to restore the 2022 vote of 1,704; the second is to win back the divisions the NNP held when it last carried the seat.

THE LESSON FOR EVERY NNP SEAT

St. Andrew South West illustrates the cost of naming caretakers late in seats lost at the previous election. The NNP lost here narrowly in 2022, waited almost three years to name a new caretaker, and lost by a far wider margin in 2026.

The four years after a defeat are when a seat is won or lost. Every seat the NNP lost should have its candidate in place within the first year of the new Parliament, not the third.

WHAT IT MEANS FOR 2030/31

1. Name the caretaker in year one, not year three.
2. Commit to one candidate for two elections.
3. Watch turnout: it fell nine points, the third-largest drop.
4. Build out from Walker, Union and the Grenville divisions.
5. Do not write off Grand Bras, Harford Village or Mount Carmel.
6. Keep a permanent office near Grenville.
7. Captain all 20 divisions, with targets from the 2022 vote.
8. Restore the 2022 vote of 1,704 as the first milestone.
